International Organizations are crucial instruments towards modern multilateralism. An increased number of states ask and receive aids from international organizations to improve their socio-economic status and legal conditions. Through the silent work of international civil servants IOs are bringing help and hope to the poorest. International Organizations represent the frontrunners in the active pursue and promotion of human rights, gender equality and respect of diversity in difficult geopolitical contexts.

La conferenza si svolgerà in italiano con presentazione di materiali in lingua inglese.

Danilo Rizzi has twenty-five years of experience in different international settings including the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the EU and the United Nations.
